BUSINESS MEN WILL DISCUSS THE READY-TO-SERVE CHARGE

Meeting Called For This Thursday Evening In the Borough Building

MAY TAKE CONCERTED ACTION

The new rates announced by the Greensboro Gas company on Saturday, to take effect on and after the first day of April next, were a general topic of comment in Charleroi Monday evening. Consumers were surprised at the turn events had taken, and were not at all pleased with the situation which will face them in the very near future.

They were of the opinion that an increase of 16 2-3 per cent in the rate for consumption was enough without adding a ready-to-serve charge, particularly in view of the fact that the Company by its rules and regulation absolves itself from all responsibility either to furnish gas or for any damages arising from its use.

Section 5 of the Rules and Regulations for the distribution of natural gas under which the Greensboro Gas Company operates, provides that the Company shall not be liable for damages caused by its failure to deliver gas arising from any cause whatever, nor shall it be liable for any injury to persons or property arising or accuring in any manner whatsoever from the use of gas.

In Charleroi it is estimated that this ready-to-serve charge of 50 cents per month will net the gas company about $1,700 per month, or a total of $20,400 per year, quite a tidy sum as you will admit. As the Greensboro company furnishes about 45 towns and hamlets in its territory it will be seen that this additional charge over and above its increased rate will result in a large amount of revenue which the people will contribute without value received.

COAL LANDS ARE ASSESSED HIGHER

Fayette county expects to have an increase in its receipts this year, owing to an increased valuation of coal lands, although the tax rate will remain the same. The tax levy has been fixed at 6 mills, three being for county purposes, two for roads and one for state tax. The revised assessments for coal land per acre are as follows:

Connellsville, $850.
Pittsburg or river vein, $750.
Springhill township, $300.
Freeport or Sewickley vein, $75.
Indian Creek valley, $25.

Connellsville coal previously was assessed at $700 per acre and the Pittsburg or river vein at $600. About fifteen millions of increased valuation was added to the coal lands, which will increase the revenue $90,000.

WANT STATE TO IMPROVE COUNTY ROAD

The Washington county members of the Legislature, together with Senator Joseph A. Herron, had a meeting with State Highway Commissioner Sadler at Harrisburg today, with reference to the improvement of one of the state highways in the northern part of the county. The promoters of the improvement, who were also present, hope for some favorable action on the part of the State authorities.

NEW BRIDGE OVER RIVER AT WILSON

The House of Representatives at Washington has passed a bill authorizing Allegheny county to build a bridge across the Monongahela river between Wilson and Glassport. It is said that this structure is a necessity on account of the glassworks on one side and the new Carnegie by-product coke ovens on the other side.

Industrial e xpansion in that section of the valley has been quite rapid during the past few years, and thousands of new people have moved into that locality, particularly at Wilson, where it was necessary to erect several h undred new houses in order to accommodate theworkingmen. The new by-product ovens, the extension of the Union Railways, and the laying of big pipe lines from Clairton to Homestead and other down river points has given work to thousands of men and has brought large additions to the population. With the new bridge across the river at that point it will be possible to take care of the people better and allow workingmen to get back and forth to their work with greater facility.

WEDDING WILL TAKE PLACE VERY SOON

Marriage license was issued in Pittsburg on Monday to Nicholas Yost of Charleroi and Miss Anna L. Carter, of Monongahela. The wedding will take place within a few days at St. Jerome's church. Mr. Yost is the Superintendent of the Charleroi Division of the Pittsburg Railways Company, while Miss Carter who is daughter of the late Bennett Carter at one time an employe of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The Protected Home Circle had the distinction of having 20 per cent of its male membership in "Service of the Colors." Its members are 100 per cent American and a good social beneficial society to affiliate with.

French Children Play Baseball

That "baseball follows the flag" is a statement long accepted as a fact by the sport lovers of America. In truth, the national pastime of the United States has found favor in every country in which it has been played by our men-at-arms. The picture shows a group of French "kiddies," coached by a "Y" secretary and encouraged by some of Uncle Sam's doughboys, taking a first lesson in baseball. From July to December of last year the Y. M. C. A. shipped 11,223 cases of athletic goods, valued at $1,248,854, for the use of the American fighting forces in France.

Court Sustains Justice In Dispute Over Lease

A suit of more than usual interest to landlord and tenant was decided in the Washington county courts on Monday, the decision being given in the suit of E. J. Charles against W. A. Hazlett, et, al., exceptions to the judgment of the justice of the peace. The court made a decree dismissing the exceptions and sustains the justice. The case was brought before the court in the form of a certiorari. It appears that the defendant leased from the plaintiff a certain dwelling house for one year from April 1, 1917. Three months before the expiration of the lease the landlord gave the tenants a written notice that their lease would expire on April 1 following, and that if they wished tohold over for an indeterminate time, they would do so at their own risk, subject to the sale of the property. The defendants refused to sign a monthly lease and at the hearing before the justice claimed that they were holding over from April 1, 1918, on the terms and conditions of thelease of April 1, 1917, as tenants from year to year. The justice found that the term of their tenancy had expired on April 1, 1918, and that the landlord was in possession after that date.

In passing upon this case the court holds that this case comes before it on a writ of a certiorari, and it has no right to review the justice's findings of fact in this proceeding. The court holds that from the fact that after the expiration at midnight on March 31, 1918, of the lease dated April 1, 1917, the tenants may have continued to reside in the house it does not necessarily follow as a matter of law, that they became tenants from year to year. The opinion was written by Judge Brownson.

MUSICAL AUXILIARY MEETS WITH MISS WOODHALL

The Musical Auxiliary was entertained at the home of Miss Edith Woodhall on Washington avenue Monday evening. An English program was rendered: Paper "English Composers," Leila Orange; song "Rule Brittanica, Ethel Barth; song, Mrs. E. A. Nicholson; piano, Mrs. G. T. Barger; reading, Mrs. Shanor Blythe; duet, Mrs. J. R. Blythe and Mabel Orange; Current Event Paper, Elizabeth Frew. Chorus practice was held. During the social hour refreshments were served by the hostesses Nora Swan and Edith Woodhall.

Belle Vernon is going to erect an "Honor Roll" for thesoldier boys of that community, which will be located on the First National Bank property. The tablet is now on hand, after it has been p ut in place will be dedicated with appropriate ceremonies.

RETURN OF LOCAL SOLDIERS FROM FRANCE IS UNCERTAIN

28th Division and 15th Engineers have many Charleroi Men in Their Ranks

15TH MAY BE HOME VERY SOON

Conflicting reports continue to reach the United States as to when the Twenty-eighth Division will sail from France for home. According to letters received by the home folks the Division is scheduled to sail from a French port early in March, to arrive in the United States about the middle of the month. It is known that the Division is moving back from the position it occupied as a part of the Army of Occupation, but as to its destination the army officials give nothing out. Letters from the boys say they are "on the way home," and relatives hope their statements are true.

On the other hand information from Washington says that the Division will not arrive home before mid-summer, at least not until after the peace treaty has been signed. It is further stated that the Division would be brought back to Camp Dix, where it would be demobilized. However, an effort will be made to have the 107th Field Artillery, the 110th and the 111th Regiments brought back intact to Pittsburg at least, where they would be demobilized.

Local interest also centers in the Fifteenth Engineers, which is now reported to be at an embarkation port in France, and that they will sail has been in France for almost twenty months, and have a most distinguished record. An effort will also be made to bring this regiment to Pittsburg as a body, where it will be demobilized, if the necessary permission can be obtained. Many Charleroi boys are in the Fifteenth, and if the regiment comes back to Pittsburg in a body it is safe to say that hundreds of our citizens will be there to greet them.

Honor The Dead

One of the most beautiful customs of man—a practice as old as civilization—is the erection of memorials to the departed. The human mind has ever been stirred to its depths and moved to great achievements in its efforts to preserve the memory of the dead. Our modern and improved equipment assures perfection of workmanship and service, plus economy, making three very good reasons why you should turn to us for your materials.

RAID PUNCH BOARD GAMBLERS IN BELLE VERNON

Constable Popp raided a store kept by a Greek in Belle Vernon a few evenings ago and arrested the proprietor and a number of visitors because of punch board gambling. The defendants put up a forfeit for a hearing before the Burgess. Many complaints had been made to the officer and he has determined to put a stop to the practice.

SHERMAN WAS WRONG, SAYS SOLDIER BOY

Harry Busch of Belle Vernon, is in receipt of the following letter from Sergeant Frank LaRue, of Co. M., Seventh U. S. Infantry, which is of more than usual interest. It is as follows:

Andenach, Germany, Jan. 15, 1919

—Friend Harry—I write you a few lines to let you know I received your letter and I hope this finds you as healthy as I am. We have been having very good weather, considering the time of year; quite a bit of rain but very cold. I used to wonder where all the water came from to keep the ocean full, but since I have been on this side of the water I often think the oceans will be running over their banks with the amount of rain we get over here, especially in France.

And another thing that keeps our minds from home a great deal, is chasing cooties. These d——d pests are far worse than the Boches. You kill one cootie and all his relatives are out to avenge him. They nearly drove us all crazy. I have dug my fingers in until I bled all over my body and my shirts looked like Joseph's coat. They are about as big as a bedbug, but I would pit one against a bulldog and bet a month's pay on him any time. I know now why Napoleon always carried his hand under his coat—he had 'em too. That pose is quite natural. I think I am rid of them now as we have good bathing facilities here and clean sheets to sleep under at nights.

Well Harry, probably you would be interested in knowing where I have been since I struck this God-forsaken side of the water. I will tell you without going into too many details for you know I will have to have something to tell when I get back, sitting on a soap box and spitting in the fire.

I boarded the Agamenor (Kaiser Wilhelm II) the seventh day of April and landed at Brest the fifteenth, without getting sunk by a submarine or evene getting a sight of one, although I would have welcomed one about the fourth day out for most of me was overboard anyway, and I thought what was left of me would not beworth salvaging. We stayed in one of Napoleon's old prison barracks, Camp Pontenaizen, for four days, when we boarded a train. We were just forty in a box car, and

PAY THE BILL.

None of us but knows that the first principle of honesty is to make good our obligations, to pay our bills.

There are many ways of being dishonest but with the greatrank and file of folks generally paying the bills is the big test.

That is the test Uncle Sam is being put to right now.

The question he is putting up to you.

Uncle Sam sent two million doughboys to France. He obligated himself for billions of dollars to supply them with munitions and provender. He made contracts that anticipated the future by many months.

But once these Yanks came into actual conflict with the Hun the whole fabric of the Hun organization went to pieces.

It was like doping an exhausted selling plater in a horse race.

The Yanks infused new spirit, new courage, new hope, new aggressiveness into the exhausted and faltering French and British.

They braced up, took a new stand, fought like fiends, and hurled the Huns back toward the Rhinewith a fury that was never overcome.

And the Hun shortly begged for peace.

But Uncle Sam's obligations stood though the armistice was signed and the war ended. He stands to pay the bills. He must pay them.

We must help. It is our obligation also. Those doughboys fought for us, for YOU and ME, as much as for Uncle Sam. We are all one.

And we must pay those bills; bills for provisions, for munitions for medical supplies and transportation, for soldiers' pay and soldiers' insurance.

The money cost of the war.

The doughboys paid the blood cost. Don't fail to appreciate that.

And when the Victory Liberty Loan comes along take your share of the bonds.

Meantime save up to that end.

We must pay these bills.

LOYALTY AND HEALTH

The government at Washington is now taking care of and for the citizens of this country in ays and to an extent never dreamed of a few years ago, let alone those remote times when the separate commonwealths took a pride in and even insisted on looking after their own affairs. The management of our railroads and other public utilities, though directly due to the war, is in harmony with the general trend. During the war, for good reasons, the government told us what to eat and how to be saving. Recently it undertook to tell us what we should not drink. And now that government socialism and paternalism have acquired a steady, swinging stride, it is no surprise to see Uncle Sam appearing in the role of family physician and instructing us in the art of keeping well.

Conservatives will still prefer to call on the family doctor, or have him call on them, and for the present at least this will be graciously permitted. But for themillions who now turn their eyes toward Washington both at morning and evening the "Health Almanac for 1919," Public Health Bulletin No. 98, is ready to their hand. Some may be cured at once on reading that "it is the patriotic duty of every loyal American to keep well" and reflecting upon the logical conclusion that it is disloyal to permit themselves to fall ill. But if their malady proves stubborn even under such treatment they can read further and find instructive remarks on preventible diseases, sanitation, feeding babies and the like sandwiched between portentous warnings such as that "alconolic excesses lower the resistance of the body"— which last seems a waste of space now that intoxicants are "verboten." As one reads one wonders if the march of Federal paternalism is destined also to put local physicians out of business.

ON THE MEND

Control of the United States Senate has long been in the control limited groups of "older statesmen." Under the seniority rule the Senators of longest service monopolized the choice places on the major committees. There was too much concentration of authority—too much inequality of power. The average Senate did not have a fair chance to develop.

The Republican Senate causus has sought to equalize things by providing that no Senator hereafter shall be a member of more than two major committees. Nor shall the chairman of a major committee serve on a conference committee unless authorized to do so by the majority members of the committee which has charge of the measure sent to conference. This arrangement will open up the conference committees to the younger Senators, who need the educational experiences of sitting on them.

The Senate and the House have both steadily lost standing with the country because of their lack of intelligent and courageous leadership. They have been overshadowed by the Executive. They can regain their prestige by cultivating a broader outlook, self-dependence and the instinct of statesmanship. Cannonism was bad for the House of Representatives. Seniority has been a drag on the Senate. Both Houses would be wise to loosen the brakes on ambition and independence. Only an ambitious and independent Congress can hope to win back the power and public confidence which the Congresses of twenty or thirty years ago enjoyed—New York Tribune.

EDUCATION FOR SOLDIERS

It was to be expected that the United States soldiers would return from overseas with an added wealth of experience and such knowledge as comes from travel and observation. To these, however, many of them will add the learning that comes from books, for 50,000 American troopers have entered the army schools established at the army posts in France. The educational system provided is remarkably elaborate, and will be more permanent than might have seemed possible, for the school will move with the divisions, accompaning them even to the demobilizing camps in the United States. Moreover, courses have been arranged in French, Scottish and English universities, and the students who take them may, if they desire, remain after the American forces have returned home. All nations have endeavored to care for their soldiers' requirements but this attention to their intellectual and moral needs marks a distinct step forward.

A TRUE CENSUS

If the arguments of the lumbermen prevail with the United States Census Bureau, the taking of the regular decennial census next year will include an enumeration of the trees in the country. Some ten or a dozen years ago the beginning of a comprehensive timber census was made by the Bureau of Corporation to secure information for its own purpose, figures were collected, and reports were made that covered nearly a thousand printed pages; but the results were inconclusive, and the estimated total running into trillions of feet of standing timber is regarded by lumberman as a rather expensive substitute for trustworthy figures. The Census Bureau is more experienced in gathering statistics, and if every tree owner is questioned by the census man the "populous and many nested trees" as Longfellow calls them, will perhaps becounted with reasonable accuracy.

WILL BE A GREAT PLAN OF HIGHWAYS

Among the lateral roads the State Highway Department proposes to improve under its comprehensive program, is the route from Washington to Somerfield, by way of Brownsville and Uniontown. This improvement embraces the National Pike and is a favorite drive for automobile owners.

The construction plan now being worked out by the State Highway Department, is very comprehensive and embraces a series of primary roads, as well as lateral feeders, which will reach to all the populous districts of the State. When the plan outlined is finally completed it will give Pennsylvania one of the finest systems of improved highways in the United States.

were yanked, jerked and bumped along for three days and nights until we begged for a chance to get out and take our spite out on the Boches. By the way, those French railroads were thec ause of winning this war. If a fellow got out of those box cars without any broken bones he was mad enough to lick his not be worth salvaging. We stayed in training in Chaumont for four weeks, when we went up and got our first smell of powder. We relieved the French at Courtbiezy, near Dormans, the first of June, and then went to Belleau Wood the fifteenth of June. The Marines had a hot time up there before we arrived, but we got into some of it anyway. According to the Marines' press agent you might have thought they were the only Americans in that fracas. We stayed there a week and then went back for a week's rest. We then went to a sector between Chateau Thiery and Forsay, the first of July. By the 4th of July I had all the skin worn off my stomach crawling along the banks of the Marne watching for the Boches to cross. We were still there on the 14th of July, and I was wishing I had a couple of fish hooks to pass the time away fishing in the Marne, when about midnight of the 14th things commenced to happen "toot sweet". They were sending shells over as big as the scrap boxes you use at the mill and say, they must have been saving them up for our special benefit for about ten years or more. It was one continuous roar and I was commencing to get sea sick. It seems as if the whole earth was rocking from the concussion of these shells. It seemed to me the earth was up in the air, with a rain of shrapnel, earth and stone houses. I went through a little town on the outskirts of Forsay when the bombardment was at its worst, and it seemed that a giant was amusing himself by picking up the houses and throwing them in the air. I was out all night without any protection. How I got through I won't know; in fact how anybody got through is a miracle. That is the night I learned to swear and pray without changing tune. Finally daylight came and such a sight; I won't attempt to describe,for I don't want to lose my reputation for truthfulness by attempting to tell you what I saw, excepting that it was hell, with apologies to old Satan for the comparison. Well they got across all right, but not in our sector. They couldn't have got a worm through the machine gun and rifle fire we gave them in our sector. They got across on our right and came around behind us. They got in some pretty good work before we got started killing a few and taking some prisoners, but "Oh, boy," when we did get wise as to where they were we treated them pretty rough, for they wouldn't play with us any more. They started something they didn't know how to finish, so on July 18 we started to show them how. I think we did pretty good for amateurs, don't you? We chased them until the 29th of July, when another bunch took a swipe at them, and after staying in reserve for two weeks we went to Traveray, near Bar-le-Duc for a two weeks' rest. Then we started hiking for St. Mihiel. We didn't get any action there however, as the objectives were all gained without any trouble. We then started for the Argonne Woods and there is where my praying and running both improved a thousand per cent. I figured my chances of getting out of there alive so slim I wouldn't even pick up any souvenirs. We were there from the first of October until the 30th, with hell a popping all the time. Going over the top got to be a morning's drill, until what few of us were not wounded, gassed or worse were hardly able to hold a rifle. Of six officers, ten Sergeants including myself and about 225 men in our Company that went up the first of October, I came back in command of 70 men, all that stood the gaff. Sherman was all wrong, War in his day was a pleasant pastime compared to this one. We finally were relieved and went back for a rest and replacements in Salmagne near Bar-le-Duc, department of Meuse. We were preparing to move up to the front the day the armistice was signed. I know if you had been in my place you would have done the same as I did. I was afraid if I stayed sober the rest of the boys would get sore so I celebrated the occasion properly. We stayed back in town for another week and then started on our march of occupation. It was a tough hike, but I would not have missed it for a thousand dollars.

W. F. Hennings, the druggist, and leading druggists everywhere.

We hiked every foot of the way and believe me all the hills are not in Pennsylvania by any means. I don't know how they got to some of these hills to build the roads. We left Salmagne the 16th of November and stopped at night in an uninhabited town, Penproux. Jauaville on the 17th, where we stopped in a German hospital until the 20th. After leaving there we crossed the border into Lorraine and were billeted at Montais-La-Monagne; from there we went to Momohoffen on the 21st and our next stop was at Sarszich, where we stayed until the first of December. After crossing into Lorraine we saw some pitiful sights of returning prisoners. French, English, Italian, Russian, Roumanians, Montenegrians, Serbians, in fact every nationality that was at war with Germany. They were half naked and half starved, with rags wrapped around their feet to protect them from the sharp stones. They were living on cabbage stocks and cow beets. Some of the tales they told were enough to make us want to kill every German we laid eyes on. While at Senzich took atrip to Thionville or Diederhofen, as the Germans named it. The French were having a celebration over the official occupation of the city and there were only about a dozen American soldiers present. I was the only one who could speak French and I had the time of my life. There were parades on every street and about 10 o'clock I had all the champagne I could hold and they wanted to hand the city over to me. I finally compromised by leading the main parade with a madamoiselle dressed in the national Lorraine costume on each arm. I finally got away and just got in camp as the bugles were sounding reville at 6 o'clock the next morning. We left Senzich December 1, crossed a corner of Luxemburg and over the Moselle river into Germany all the same day. We stopped at a number of places and finally on the 10th we saw what we had been looking for when we reached Bacharach on the Rhine. We marched along the Rhine, going through Coblenz on the 15th and landing at Andernach, our present position, on the 17th. This is where we stay unless something happens, until we start for God's country, which I hope will be not be long.

The scenery on the trip was beautiful, especially along the Rhine, the high cliffs the old castles perched up on the very top. Looked as if they were leaning over ready to fall upon us as we marched below.

The German people are very good to us, quite different from what I expected. They seem glad to have us among them, they get better treat-

SOLDIER MURDERED ON HIS RETURN HOME

Eusian Kolosnik, a Russian, aged 30 years, single, of VanVoorhis, Carroll township, recently with the American Expeditionary Forces in France, arriving home on Saturday last, was murdered some time Saturday night. His body was found along the M. & W. railroad tracks near VanVoorhis early Sunday morning.

It was at first thought he had been hit by a train his skull being crushed in. However at a post mortem examination held at Monongahela on Sunday a bullet was found in the head. There were no other marks on the head other than the injury to the skull, which appeared to have been made with some blunt instrument.

Complete mystery surrounds the death of the young soldier. State police are working on the case. Kolosnik had arrived at thehome of his cousin Jack Kolosnik, at Van Voorhis, on Saturday. That evening he and his cousin went to Monongahela. The last time the cousin saw him was about 7 o'clock Saturday evening. The cousin at that time left him, having an errand over the river expecting to meet Kolosnik later in the evening.

Sunday morning the crew of the south bound train from Monongahela to VanVoorhis noticed the body of a man clad in a uniform lying along thetracks. It was at once supposed he had been hit by a night train. The fact, however, that a bullet was found in the head, and that there were no injuries about the body, did away with the theory of death on the tracks. Kolosnik was drafted from the Monongahela section

MAY CO-OPERATE TO AID PACKET LINES

The Liberty Transit Company of Pittsburg, which operates a line of packets between Pittsburg and Charleston, W. Va., and Cincinnati, Ohio, is making efforts to secure federal co-operation. The company's manager was in Washington recently talking with government authorities on this matter, and was told the United States Engineers' office and the department of inland waterways were watching the efforts of the company to revive the trade. The company proposes to have four steamers out of Pittsburg each week for southern points. It is expected the new schedule will go into effect on the first of March.

Mrs. W. C. Clark will be hostess to the ladies of the First Presbyterian church at a social and business session to be held this evening.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. William Newton, February 12—a daughter.

Wasted Patience.

He was a green Scottish lad, and one of his duties was to answer the telephone. When first called on to do so, in reply to the usual query: "Are you there?" he nodded assent. Again the question came and again and yet again, and each time the boy gave the answering nod. When the question came for the fifth time, however, the boy, losing his temper, roared through the transmitter: "Man, are ye blin'? I've been noddin' ma heid aff for the last half oor!"—Boston Transcript.

Cubeb.

Cubeb berries are from the climbing plant called Piper Cubeba, native of the West Indies, being extensively cultivated in Java and Sumatra. It is used as local stimulant in indigestion and as a flavoring vehicle in mixtures and gargles. It is valuable particularly in diseases of the mucous membrane, especially of the bronchi. Frequently smoked in cigarettes for their effect on the mucous membrane of the bronchi and larynx.

Bee Farming Has Future.

It is a fascinating business, that of bee farming, and a business which notwithstanding the fact that it dates back to prehistoric times, is even yet an infant industry. Which is to say, it is not one-fourth developed to the potential limit. There is an immense amount of honey wasted every year because there are not enough bees to gather it.

Power for Good and Evil.

Into the hands of every individual is given a marvelous power for good or for evil—the silent, unconscious, unseen influence of his life. This is simply the constant radiation of what a man really is, not what he pretends to be. Life is a state of constant radiation and absorption; to exist is to radiate; to exist is to be the recipient of radiations.

UPHELD MORALE OF ARMY.

Gave $1,400,000 in Free Canteen Supplies to American Doughboys.

"ALL of the ammunition used during the three days' battle of Gettysburg would have lasted on the Western Front in the world war just seven minutes. The supplies used by Sherman on his three months' march to the sea would have been consumed by the Allied Army in ten hours."

This statement, made recently by an American officer, a veteran of the Spanish war, who later rendered service in the Mexican campaign and with our armies in France, should convey some idea of the gigantic contest which terminated in a glorious victory for allied forces over the Teutons. But there were other mighty tasks connected with the winning of the titanic struggle for the preservation of civilization, additional to furnishing the necessary men, munitions and supplies. One of these, and far from the least important, was the care of American soldiers and sailors when not actually engaged in their war time duties, that the morale of men in khaki and blue should be maintained at the very highest possible point.

Back in those days when the war clouds had spread over practically all Europe and it was obvious that the United States soon would be compelled to take a great part in the struggle the Young Men's Christian Association began to make its plans for the care of the Americans who would be called to the colors. The tentative program included the placing of recreation centers in all home camps and at many places abroad, furnishing amusement aplenty for the idle moments of the men of our forces and many other things essential to a successful welfare program. This was much, but when the storm finally broke and the President sent forth the call which plunged the United States into the struggle, the Y. M. C. A., at the request of General Pershing, took over the canteen service for the American Expeditionary Force. At that time it was agreed that goods were to be sold at the several "Y" centers at the purchase cost price, plus cost of transportation, and if any profits should arise the "Y" would use them exclusively for the men in the army. There have been criticisms to the effect that the Y. M. C. A. operated these canteens at a profit. These charges, oft repeated, are utterly untrue.

Free Canteen Supplies.

Naturally, in consequence of war-inflated transportation charges, supplies in the canteens had to be sold at a rate higher than charged in this country. The following from a recent statement by William Sloane, Chairman of the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A., indicates the true state of affairs. He said: "Free distribution of canteen supplies to American soldiers by the Y. M. C. A. to a value of $1,400,000 and a loss on operation of post exchanges overseas, exclusive of the soldiers' stores in Great Britain, amounting to $332,181, has been reported by E. C. Carter, Chief 'Y' Secretary in Paris. This total of nearly $1,750,000, which does not include the post exchange department for November and December, is the most emphatic answer the Y. M. C. A. can make to the charges of profiteering. In neither of these items, however, does the magnitude of the 'Y' free service appear. There is no mention of the free use of athletic supplies valued at over $1,000,000; no mention of $600,000 item for stationery furnished the soldiers who wrote home upon it more than 14,000,000 letters; no mention of the gigantic entertainment programs."

It should be kept in mind that the Y. M. C. A., at the request of the army authorities, was put up against a practically impossible proposition. It was asked to take charge of a great business spending $100,000,000 a year. Most of the trained secretaries never had had experience in any line at all similar to canteen work. It was a task akin to that of taking a group of men out of the streets and assigning to them the problem of operating a great railroad.

Adverse Criticism Dwindling.

However, adverse criticism has been relatively small and is dwindling daily as the real facts are understood. As one war correspondent, recently returned from Europe, stated the other day: "When most of the soldiers get home they, no doubt, will tell the real story of the self-sacrificing, earnest service by the 'Y' men who toiled long hours under great difficulties and frequent danger. Most of them asked for front line service, and they paid a heavy price in killed and wounded. In spite of all difficulties the 'Y' brought the home touch to the soldiers. The people of this country appreciate more than ever the true worth of Dr. John R. Mott, head of the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A., who, patient under unfair criticism, has directed his forces to a successful termination of the greatest philanthropic task in the world's history."

ment from us than they did from their own soldiers. We pay for everything we get; thatis more than their soldiers would do. As for them starving. I have yet to see any evidence of it. Of course there are many things lacking and their bread is thepoorest I have ever eaten, but they have more to eat than the French.

Things seem mighty slow now after being on the jump for about eight months. This quietness gets on our nerves. I was very much homesick for a while, but after getting a letter from the folks telling me of the death of my sister it doesn't bother me so much now, for my sister was more like a mother to me than a sister, and home without her will seem very lonesome to me. I am thinking of going out west. away from the mills, if ever I get back. I have made some good friends in the army and many of them have something worth while to go back to when they are through here, and several of them have offered me jobs. My health is better now than it has ever been. I am afraid to lose it by going back to the dirt and some of the mills. I may change my mind before I get back, but I don't think I will.

Getting back to my subject I think it is a long way off for us fellows stuck away up here out of God's knowledge. While in France I could speak the lingo and it was very useful both in business and pleasure, but up here we are not allowed to fraternize with the people only strictly on business. Any German girl caught with an American soldier is forced to work on the streets on Sunday morning with a police guard o ver her, and the soldier is put in the guard house. That is one of the reasons this lingo does not interest me, and another reason is that these squareheads don't interest me much anyhow. The less I see of them the better I like it. At the house where I am staying I am pretty w ell fixed. I have a good clean bed and it is kept clean by the woman of the house. There is an old fellow here who was in the states for thirty years; he is an American citizen, so my wants are pretty well looked after. Hoping you and all the boys are in good health I remain as ever,

"GET CURED OR GET A DIVORCE" HER ULTIMATUM

"I had such bad stomach trouble that it almost broke up my home," says Wilbur Taunt, North Seventh street, Harrisburg, Pa.

"My food wouldn't digest, but would just lie heavy on my stomach, and the gas and poison would rise up into my mouth, causing my breath to smell so that it was terribly offensive to anybody who came near me.

"This had been going on for quite a while. I kept getting worse and worse. Finally my wife said to me: 'Wilbur, I can't stand the smell of your breath any longer. Go get cured or get a divorce.' My friends said that Tanlac would do the trick, so I began taking it. Now all is serene in the happy little home on Seventh street. Tanlac has fixed me up fine and I can't say enough for it."

The genuine Tanlac bearing n ame J. I. Gore Co., is sold by Frank J. John and Pipers Pharmacy.

Mag Rhu, The World's Greatest Stomach Remedy, Is Now On Sale At First-Class Drug Stores

A Brief History of Mag Rhu

The discoverer of Mag Rhu, a Pittsburg business man, suffered intensely with stomach trouble for seven years, and during that time he doctored with stomach specialists, practiced christian science, physical culture, gave a thorough trial to every home remedy, tried all the patent medicines hesaw advertised to cure stomach trouble, and none of these gave him the slightest relief; he spent in all about five thousand dollars trying to get well. The first dose of Mag Rhu gave him instant relief, the first in seven years; he could hardly believe that he would h ave permanent relief, but it has now been over two years that he has been cured and has gained over forty pounds.

He was so delighted with this wonderful remedy that for two years he gave all his friends who suffered with stomach trouble this remedy and they were all cured. Finally there was such a great demand for Mag Rhu, that a company of Pittsburg business men, who have been stomach sufferers themselves, felt it their duty to put it on the market, not as a money-making scheme, but for the benefit of the thousands of stomach sufferers who have failed to get relief from other remedies, and every cent received will be expended in placing this wonderful stomach remedy in reach of all stomach sufferers, at a price that all can afford to pay.

These Pittsburg men know exactly just what Mag Rhu will do when they advise you to try a box of Mag Rhu, and if you do not get results you can return the box and it won't cost you a cent.

MAG RHU is made from natural herbs and minerals and not any Alchohol or Harmful Poisonous Drugs are used. Thousands of patent medicines on the market are made to sell, not to cure, and are made sweet or to taste good; alcohol or harmful poisinous drugs are used to give one a false stimulant.

A great many people have received permanent relief from one box of MAG RHU, but you should not be discouraged if you are not entirely well by using only one box for the chances are that you have been suffering a long time and you must not expect to get well in a week.

What Mag Rhu Is Guaranteed to Do

Mag Rhu is a guaranteed remedy for the permanent relief of all kinds of stomach trouble---Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Heartburn, Bloat, Belchings, Sour and Gassy Stomach, Heavy Dull Feeling After Eating, Dizziness, Heart Palpitation and Stomach Pains.

Mag Rhu helps digest and assimilate your food, giving you good rich blood, neutralizes the excessive acids, relieves you of constipation giving a freedom of action of the nerves and proper circulation of the blood. Contains no harmful drugs, no alcohol.

Prompt results in cases of long standing, when doctors and patent medicines fail. One box will convince you of the merits. Price of box refunded if after a thorough trial, according to directions, you do not get results.

If your stomach does not perform its proper function, you lose weight, you lose those rosy cheeks and become pale, you do not enjoy the pleasures of life that you are entitled to. You are nervous, can't sleep, short of breath, have heart palpitation, caused by your stomach being filled with gas crowding you heart, constipated, bilious, have t errible headaches, dizzy spells, all because you do not have the proper digestion and assimiliation.

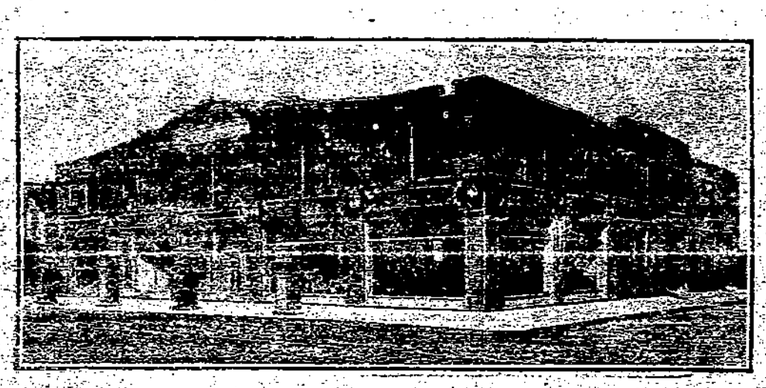

Mag Rhu not only helps digest and assimilate your food, giving you good, rich blood, but also produces a good, clear complexion, bright eyes, rosy cheeks and red lips.

Make up your mind to get a box of Mag Rhu today, then notice how quickly you get relief from all these stomach miseries.

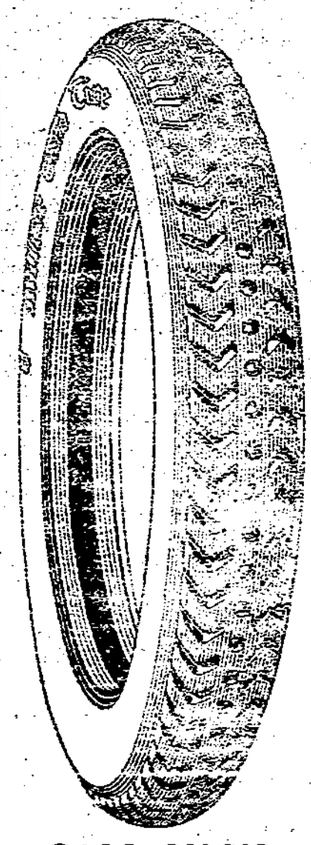

Sold at all drug stores. If your druggist cannot supply you write direct to Mag Rhu company, and a box of Mag Rhu will be sent postpaid upon receipt of $1.00. Address Mag Rhu Co., 207-208 Fitzsimmons Building, 331 Fourth Avenue, Pittsburg, Pa.
